

The Second Announcement of The 8th Ocean Science Workshop

Program of the East Asian

Cooperative Experiments (PEACE)

Date: 29-31 August, 2016

Location: Vladivostok, Russia

Host: V.I.Ilichev Pacific Oceanological Institute, Far Eastern Branch, Russian Academy of Sciences

Scope: PEACE (Program of the East Asian Cooperative Experiments) is an informal international organization aimed at the promotion of international cooperative researches on the regional oceanography in the East Asian Seas. The PEACE Workshops had been held biannually since 2002 and, as a result, several joint projects were launched and successfully implemented. The 8th PEACE Ocean Science Workshop will focus on physical, chemical, and biological oceanography in the East Asian Marginal Seas as well as development of the ocean observation technologies, with the emphasis on cooperative studies between China, Korea, Japan, and Russia. Other interested parties are also welcome to take part in the Workshop. Of particular interest are interdisciplinary studies, such as linkages between physical and biological processes, ecosystem responses to climate variability and human activities, numerical modeling of circulation and ecosystems, new observational/information techniques and methods, including satellites, buoys, platforms, gliders, data bases, and information systems. Future joint projects are to be discussed at the special sessions.

Themes of scientific sessions:

1. Physical Oceanography and response to Climate Change of the Asian Marginal Seas
2. Marine Chemistry, Ecology, and Ecosystem Dynamics
3. Observation and information technologies for cooperative experiments

Special sessions/discussions:

1. The Japan/East Sea circulation schemes revisited
2. Twenty years after CREAMS-II: proposal for new international basin-scale survey

3. GEOTRACES program for the Okhotsk Sea
4. Cooperative research for understanding ocean circulation, mixing processes and material transport in the East China Sea
